Co-founder and COO, HungerBox

Uttam Kumar is the Co-founder and COO of HungerBox, India's largest Organised Foodtech Solutions Provider for businesses and institutions. HungerBox clocks more than 13 million orders a month (450,000+ orders per day) across 500+ digital cafeterias that the company currently manages for more than 120 companies across 14 Indian cities.

Over a decade-long career in the F&B and financial services sectors, Uttam has driven large and dispersed operations and sales teams. After commencing his career in the auto finance sector with Kotak Mahindra Bank, he moved to the food sector and progressed from the position of a Sales Manager to National Sales Head based in Delhi in just four years with JustEat (India), which was later acquired by FoodPanda. At HungerBox, Uttam leads a 900+ workforce responsible for seamless F&B operations and management.

Uttam co-founded HungerBox in 2016 as he believed there was a huge scope for disruption and improvement in the way F&B management was being undertaken for businesses and large institutions. The idea was to create an 'asset-light', tech-led, scalable model that was flexible to match client requirements. The fast-paced growth at HungerBox is a clear testimony of the vision.

Uttam has an MBA from the prestigious XIME (Xavier Institute of Management & Entrepreneurship), Bangalore and is currently based out of Bangalore, India.
